

Market Review

Global Equities (as measured by the MSCI All Country World Index) declined a for second consecutive quarter, finishing down more than 15% for the period. Persistent inflation, rising interest rates, and fears of a possible recession weighed heavily on stocks. Emerging Markets equities held up better than Developed Markets as a group, buoyed by China, where equity returns were positive despite ongoing COVID-19 related restrictions. Within Developed Markets, the Asia/Pacific, Japan, and United Kingdom regions posted stronger returns for the quarter, while Europe and North America underperformed. Energy and Consumer Staples were the top performing global sectors, supported by higher fuel prices and a rotation to undervalued defensive stocks, respectively. Information Technology and Consumer Discretionary stocks fell off sharply. Larger-cap stocks generally outperformed small-caps and value stocks outperformed growth-oriented shares.

QVS Factor Performance

The RS Global team's proprietary QVS (Quality, Value and Sentiment) Model evaluates over 10,000 global companies in search of the most attractive investment opportunities. It is designed to identify companies that have the potential to consistently create shareholder value, are reasonably valued, and exhibit favorable market sentiment. The model helps us focus our resources, as we conduct additional research only on companies with the strongest model recommendations.

Model performance was mixed for the period. Quintile 1 of the model outperformed Quintile 5 in most regions but both underperformed Quintiles 2 through 4 at the universe level. Valuation was the best performing factor overall, but Quality and Sentiment were also positive across regions. The model performed best in North America and was weaker in Emerging Markets and Japan.

Performance and Positioning

The Victory RS Global Strategy returned -16.81% (net) for the period, while its benchmark, the MSCI All Country World Index (net) (the "Index"), returned -15.66%.

Negative stock selection in the Industrials, Materials, and Health Care sectors detracted from relative performance for the period. Stock selection was positive in the Consumer Staples and Financials sectors. Stock selection was mostly negative across regions, including Europe and the United Kingdom. Country-level detractors included Hong Kong, Japan and Switzerland, while positive contributors included France and Australia.

Individual detractors for the period included graphics processor manufacturer NVIDIA Corporation, big-box department store Target Corporation, and logistics-oriented real estate investment Trust Prologis Incorporated, all based in the United States.

Positive contributors to relative performance included household products provider Colgate-Palmolive Company, pharmaceutical producer Eli Lilly and Company, and multinational fast food chain McDonald's Corporation, all based in the United States.

Outlook

The World Bank's projection for global growth in 2022 has been revised downward to 2.9%, reflecting a material reduction from its 4.1% projection at the start of the year. Inflation concerns, exacerbated by the Russian invasion of Ukraine in February, have put central banks on a path of aggressive rate hikes expected to slow economic growth, spurring fears of a recession. The central question for equity investors is how much these dynamics are already reflected in share prices, as valuations have fallen significantly, especially for growth-oriented companies.

That said, what is most important is to stay the course and be true to our quality-oriented investment process. We anticipate a prolonged period of elevated market volatility and will stay vigilant when constructing our portfolios, remaining sector- and region-neutral, as we believe that strong risk management should stand at the forefront. Making correct macro allocation calls can be immensely challenging; therefore, we do not forecast regional performance. In our view, stock selection can be far more impactful to strategy performance than allocation.

We thank you for your continued support.

Sincerely,

The Victory RS Global Markets Team

The RS Global Composite combines data-driven discipline with fundamental analysis in seeking to capture information inefficiencies in global companies across the market capitalization spectrum in order to provide a consistent, diversified return stream over market cycles. The benchmark is the MSCI All Country World Index (Net). The composite was created per inception date in the Performance Table above.

Composite and benchmark returns are presented net of non-reclaimable withholding taxes, if any. Gross-of-fees returns are presented before management and custodial fees but after all trading expenses. Net-of-fees returns reflect gross performance less investment management fees. Net-of-fees returns are calculated by deducting 1/12 of the highest tier of the standard fee schedule in effect for the period noted (the model fee). The composite model fee for each period is either the highest tier of the current fee schedule or a higher value, whichever is required to ensure the model composite net-of-fee return is lower than or equal to the composite net-of-fee return calculated using actual fees. Actual fees may vary depending on, among other things, the applicable fee schedule and portfolio size. The firm's fees are available on request and may be found on Part 2A of its Form ADV.
